MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER

Before the Court is a Motion for Final Default Judgment (doc. 7), filed by Plaintiff J&J Sports Productions, Inc. on September 8, 2014. Plaintiff seeks a default judgment on its claims against Defendant Brenda Hernandez, individually and d/b/a Taco Rico, d/b/a El Taco Rico. For the reasons that follow, the Motion is GRANTED in part and DENIED in part.

I.

BACKGROUND

This case involves claims under the Federal Communications Act of 1934, as amended, 47 U.S.C. §§ 553 and 605 (the “FCA”). Plaintiff J&J Sports Productions, Inc. markets and licenses closed-circuit, pay-per-view prizefighting events to be viewed at commercial establishments. Doc. 7-1, Pl.’s Ex. A, Affidavit of Thomas P. Riley (“Riley Aff.”), App. 6. Plaintiff acquired the proprietary rights to exhibit and sublicense the right to exhibit the May 7, 2011 broadcast “Manny Pacquiao v. Shane Mosley,” of the WBO World Welterweight Championship Fight Program, including all undercard bouts and the main prizefight (the “Event”). Doc. 1, Compl. ¶ 5; Pl.’s Ex. A, Riley Aff., App. 6; Pl.’s Ex. A-1, App. 13. Plaintiff marketed and distributed exhibition rights to the Event to commercial locations throughout Texas in exchange for a fee. Compl. ¶¶ 5, 7. To prevent unlicensed establishments from exhibiting the Event, the transmission was electronically coded or “scrambled,” and establishments that had obtained the necessary license to broadcast the Event were provided with electronic decoding equipment. Id. ¶¶ 8, 10. Plaintiff alleges that Defendant did not contract to obtain the rights to broadcast the Event. Id. ¶ 9. Nonetheless, on May 7, 2011, Plaintiff avers that Defendant broadcast the Event to patrons of her establishment, El Taco Rico. Id.

Plaintiff filed the present case on April 30, 2014, asserting that Defendant willfully violated the FCA for commercial gain. Id. ¶¶ 11–12, 16–17. Plaintiff thus maintains that it is entitled to an award of statutory and additional damages pursuant to the FCA, a permanent injunction enjoining Defendant from intercepting or exhibiting future programs without a license to do so, as well as court costs, attorneys’ fees, and pre- and post-judgment interest. Id. at 4–5.

Defendant was served with process on June 2, 2014 (doc. 5), but did not answer or otherwise respond by the appropriate deadline. Upon Plaintiff’s request, the Clerk of Court entered a default against Defendant on September 8, 2014. See docs. 6, 8. On the same day, Plaintiff filed the present Motion for Final Default Judgment. Doc. 7. Defendant has yet to respond or otherwise appear in this case.

LEGAL STANDARD

Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 55 provides for the entry of default judgments in federal court. According to the Rule, “[w]hen a party against whom a judgment for affirmative relief is sought has failed to plead or otherwise defend, . . . the clerk must enter the party’s default.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 55(a). Once default has been entered, the court may enter a default judgment against the defaulting defendant upon motion of the plaintiff. Id. 55(b).

That being said, “[d]efault judgments are a drastic remedy, not favored by the Federal Rules and resorted to by courts only in extreme situations.” Sun Bank of Ocala v. Pelican Homestead & Sav. Ass’n, 874 F.2d 274, 276 (5th Cir. 1989). A party is not entitled to a default judgment merely because the defendant is technically in default. Ganther v. Ingle, 75 F.3d 207, 212 (5th Cir. 1996). “Rather, a default judgment is generally committed to the discretion of the district court.” United States v. 1998 Freightliner Vin #: 1FUYCZVB3WP886986, 548 F. Supp. 2d 381, 384 (W.D. Tex. 2008) (citing Mason v. Lister, 562 F.2d 343, 345 (5th Cir. 1977)).

In determining whether a default judgment should be entered against a defendant, courts have developed a three-part analysis. See, e.g., 1998 Freightliner Vin #: 1FUYCZVB3WP886986, 548 F. Supp. 2d at 384. First, courts consider whether the entry of default judgment is procedurally warranted. See Lindsey v. Prive Corp., 161 F.3d 886, 893 (5th Cir. 1998). The factors relevant to this inquiry include: (1) whether material issues of fact exist; (2) whether there has been substantial prejudice; (3) whether the grounds for default are clearly established; (4) whether the default was caused by a good faith mistake or excusable neglect; (5) the harshness of a default judgment; and (6) whether the court would think itself obliged to set aside the default on the defendant's motion. Id.

Second, courts assess the substantive merits of the plaintiff's claims and determine whether there is a sufficient basis in the pleadings for the judgment. See Nishimatsu Constr. Co., Ltd. v. Houston Nat'l Bank, 515 F.2d 1200, 1206 (5th Cir. 1975) (noting that "default is not treated as an absolute confession by the defendant of his liability and of the plaintiff's right to recover."). In doing so, the Court is to assume that due to its default, defendant admits all well-pleaded facts in the plaintiff's complaint. Id. However, the "defendant is not held to admit facts that are not-well-pleaded or to admit conclusions of law." Id.

Third, courts determine what form of relief, if any, the plaintiff should receive. Ins. Co. of the W. v. H & G Contractors, Inc., No. C-10-390, 2011 WL 4738197, at *4 (S.D. Tex. Oct. 5, 2011) ("A defendant's default concedes the truth of the allegations of the Complaint concerning the defendant's liability, but not damages.") (citing Jackson v. FIE Corp., 302 F.3d 515, 524–25 (5th Cir. 2002)). Normally, damages are not to be awarded without a hearing or a demonstration by detailed affidavits establishing the necessary facts. See United Artists Corp. v. Freeman, 605 F.2d 854, 857 (5th Cir. 1979). However, if the amount of damages can be determined with mathematical calculation by reference to the pleadings and supporting documents, a hearing is unnecessary. James v. Frame, 6 F.3d 307, 310 (5th Cir. 1993).

III.

ANALYSIS

A. Whether the Entry of Default Judgment Is Appropriate

After reviewing Plaintiff's Motion in light of the six Lindsey factors, the Court finds that default judgment is procedurally warranted. First, Defendant has not filed any responsive pleadings. Consequently, there are no material facts in dispute. Lindsey, 161 F.3d at 893; Nishimatsu Constr., 515 F.2d at 1206 (noting that “[t]he defendant, by his default, admits the plaintiff’s well pleaded allegations of fact.”). Indeed, Defendant’s “failure to respond threatens to bring the adversary process to a halt, effectively prejudicing Plaintiff’s interests.” Ins. Co. of the W., 2011 WL 4738197, at *3 (citing Lindsey, 161 F.3d at 893). In addition, there is no evidence before the Court to indicate that Defendant’s silence is the result of a “good faith mistake or excusable neglect.” Lindsey, 161 F.3d at 893. Moreover, Defendant’s failure to respond to Plaintiff’s Complaint for the past ten months “mitigat[es] the harshness of a default judgment” against it. John Perez Graphics & Design, LLC v. Green Tree Inv. Grp., Inc., No. 3:12-CV-4194-M, 2013 WL 1828671, at *3 (N.D. Tex. May 1, 2013); see also Elite v. KNR Group, 216 F.3d 1080, 2000 WL 729378, at *1 (5th Cir. May 19, 2000) (per curiam) (holding default judgment to be inappropriate where defendant sent letter to court explaining that failure to appear was due to financial privation). Finally, the Court is not aware of any facts that would give rise to “good cause” to set aside the default if challenged by Defendant.

B. Whether There Is a Sufficient Basis for Judgment in the Pleadings

In light of the entry of default, Defendant is deemed to have admitted the allegations set forth in Plaintiff’s Complaint. Nonetheless, the Court must review the pleadings to determine whether Plaintiff can establish a viable claim for relief. Nishimatsu Constr., 515 F.2d at 1206 (noting that “default is not treated as an absolute confession by the defendant of his liability and of the plaintiff’s right to recover.”).

Plaintiff alleges that Defendant “willfully intercepted and/or received the interstate communication of the Event,” or, alternatively, “assisted in the receipt of the interstate communication of the Event.” Compl. ¶ 11. Plaintiff then avers that Defendant “transmitted, divulged and published [the Event] . . . to patrons within [Defendant’s establishment]” in violation of 47 U.S.C. §§ 553 and 605. Id. ¶¶ 11, 16. Defendant allegedly “infringed upon Plaintiff’s exclusive rights” to broadcast the Event “willfully and with the express purpose and intent to secure a commercial advantage and private financial gain.” Id. ¶ 12.

A person violates § 605 when he “intercept[s] any radio communication . . . or receive[s] or assist[s] in receiving any interstate or foreign communication by radio and use[s] such communication . . . for his own benefit or for the benefit of another not entitled thereto.” 47 U.S.C. § 605(a). Similarly, one violates § 553 by “intercept[ing] and receiv[ing] or assist[ing] in intercepting or receiving any communications service offered over a cable system” without authorization. Id. § 553(a)(1). The unauthorized interception of satellite or cable transmissions violates both §§ 553 and 605. Entm’t by J & J, Inc. v. Al-Waha Enters., 219 F. Supp. 2d 769, 774 (S.D. Tex. 2002). Here, Plaintiff’s Complaint indicates that the Event was transmitted via an “electronically coded or ‘scrambled’” satellite signal, and that Defendant intercepted the Event without authorization, exhibiting it to patrons of her establishment for her own commercial benefit. Compl. ¶¶ 8–9, 11, 12. After review of these allegations, the Court finds that Plaintiff has asserted a viable claim for relief under the FCA.

C. Damages

“A defendant’s default concedes the truth of the allegations of the Complaint concerning the defendant’s liability, but not damages.” Ins. Co. of the W., 2011 WL 4738197, at *4 (citing Jackson, 302 F.3d at 524–25). Damages must be proven by a hearing or a demonstration of detailed affidavits establishing the necessary facts. See United Artists Corp., 605 F.2d at 857. If the amount of damages can be determined with mathematical calculation by reference to the pleadings and supporting documents, a hearing is unnecessary. James, 6 F.3d at 370.

A party aggrieved by a violation of § 605 may elect to receive either actual damages or statutory damages. 47 U.S.C. § 605(e)(3)(C)(i). Statutory damages for each violation of the section must be awarded in an amount no less than $1,000 and no more than $10,000, as the Court finds just. Id. § 605(e)(3)(C)(i)(II). If the Court finds that a violation was committed “willfully and for purposes of direct or indirect commercial advantage or private financial gain,” it may, in its discretion, increase the damage awarded by an amount of not more than $100,000. Id. § 605(e)(3)(C)(ii). An aggrieved party who prevails shall receive full costs, including reasonable attorneys’ fees. Id. § 605(e)(3)(B)(iii).

1. Statutory Damages

Plaintiff maintains that “it would be impossible to determine the full extent of the profits” it lost and “the additional damages sustained . . . as a result of Defendant’s unlawful actions.” Doc. 7, Pl.’s Mot. for Final Default Judgment (“Pl.’s Mot.”) 4–5. Thus, Plaintiff requests statutory rather than actual damages, seeking an award of $10,000—the statutory maximum—against Defendant.<sup>1</sup> Id. at 4, 10. Plaintiff specifies that Defendant’s actions have led it to lose revenue and have deprived it of the “‘value, benefits and profits derived’ from the unauthorized broadcast of the Event . . . as well as

<sup>1</sup> The Court notes that Plaintiff cannot recover under both §§ 553 and 605, even if it can be demonstrated that Defendant violated both. Al-Waha Enters., 219 F. Supp. 2d at 775. Therefore, the inquiry as to damages will only be based on a discussion of § 605, as it allows Plaintiff a greater recovery. Id.

the value of ‘business investment, business opportunities and goodwill.’” Id. at 5 (quoting Am. Television & Commc’ns. Corp. v. Floken, Ltd., 629 F. Supp. 1462, 1466 (M.D. Fla.1986)). In support of its request for damages, Plaintiff presents the affidavit of Thomas P. Riley, whose firm was charged with “the discovery, investigation and prosecution of claims arising from the theft or piracy of . . . [the Event].” Pl.’s Ex. A, Riley Aff., App. 5–6. In his affidavit, Riley avers that Defendant’s actions threaten the existing and ongoing viability of Plaintiff’s company. Id. at 8–10. By broadcasting programming without complying with the required licensing process, establishments like Defendant’s are able to charge their patrons no fee or a fee less than what authorized establishments are required to charge. Id. at 8–9. Thus, establishments that lawfully broadcast programs lose business and patrons and, accordingly, lose the ability to contract with Plaintiff in order to obtain license to broadcasts. Id. Furthermore, patrons who view the illegally broadcasted material at establishments like Defendant’s might otherwise have attended lawful establishments, “which encourages authorized establishments to continue to purchase additional events.” Id. at 9. Plaintiff explains that piracy such as Defendant’s causes the company to suffer damage to its goodwill, reputation, and right and ability to control and receive fees for the transmission of programs. Id. at 9–10.

Courts have assessed various amounts in statutory damages for violations similar to those presented here. See Joe Hand Promotions, Inc. v. Alima, No. 3:13-CV-0889-B, 2014 WL 1632158, at *4 (N.D. Tex. Apr. 22, 2014) (awarding base statutory damages in the amount of $5,000); J & J Sports Prods., Inc. v. Beck, No. L-13-57, 2013 WL 5592333, at *2 (S.D. Tex. Oct. 9, 2013) (same); J & J Sports Prods., Inc. v. Q Café, Inc., No. 3:10-CV-2006-L, 2012 WL 215282, at *5 (N.D. Tex. Jan. 25, 2012) (awarding base statutory damages in the amount of $10,000); Al-Waha Enters., 219

F. Supp. 2d at 776 (awarding base statutory damages in the amount of $5,000). In light of the need to deter future violations, and considering the fact that the sublicensing fee here would have been approximately $2,200 had Defendant paid to lawfully broadcast the Event, the Court finds that statutory damages in the amount of $5,000 is reasonable. See Pl.'s Ex. A-3, Rate Card; see, e.g., Al-Waha Enters., 219 F. Supp. 2d at 776 ("Merely requiring Al-Waha to pay the price it would have been charged to obtain legal authorization to display the event does nothing to accomplish this object [to deter future violations of the FCA]."). The Court therefore GRANTS Plaintiff's request for statutory damages and awards Plaintiff the sum of $5,000.

2. Additional Damages

Plaintiff further requests $50,000 in additional damages pursuant to 47 U.S.C. § 605(e)(3)(C)(ii), based on its allegation that Defendant's actions "were willful and 'for purposes of direct or indirect commercial advantage or private financial gain.'" Pl.'s Mot. 6. Plaintiff does not present evidence to demonstrate that Defendant willfully violated the FCA, but it insists that Defendant could not have "innocently" accessed the broadcast of the Event given the complexity of intercepting transmissions. Id. at 7. Courts have generally found this reasoning to be persuasive given the limited means by which defendants can access closed-circuit, pay-per-view events and the unlikelihood that an establishment could intercept such broadcasts by chance. See Al-Waha Enters., 219 F. Supp. 2d at 777 (finding willfulness given the "limited methods of intercepting closed circuit broadcasting of pay-per-view events" and "the low probability that a commercial establishment could intercept such a broadcast merely by chance"); Q Café, Inc., 2012 WL 215282, at *5 (citing Time Warner Cable v. Googies Luncheonette, Inc., 77 F. Supp. 2d 485, 490 (S.D.N.Y. 1999) ("There can be no doubt that the violations were willful and committed for purposes of commercial advantage and private gain. Signals do not descramble spontaneously, nor do television sets connect themselves to cable distribution systems.”)). Based on this line of cases, the Court likewise concludes that the evidence and allegations presented by Plaintiff are sufficient to support a finding of willfulness.

Moreover, the record indicates that Defendant exhibited the Event for purposes of direct or indirect commercial gain. The Event was exhibited to approximately twenty-three patrons of Defendant’s establishment. Pl.’s Ex A-2, App. 21. While the establishment did not charge a cover for admission, its patrons “purchased meals and/or drinks while viewing the Event.” Pl.’s Mot. Br. 4; Ex A-2, App. 22. Courts have found this fact persuasive in establishing a commercial motive. See Beck, 2013 WL 5592333, at *2 (finding commercial motive based on the fact that “patrons purchased food and/or drinks while viewing the Event” and because “it is obvious that commercial establishments show sports programs to draw business, not out of charity.”). This Court similarly finds sufficient evidence and allegations to establish Defendant’s motive.

Although the FCA allows for additional damages in an amount not greater than $100,000 for willful violations, 47 U.S.C. § 605(e)(3) (C)(ii), courts have varied in their approaches to determining the proper amount to award in cases similar to the present one. See, e.g., Alima, 2014 WL 1632158, at *5 (awarding additional damages in the amount of four times the statutory base award where defendant charged a cover and showed the event on nine screens to approximately 85 to 125 patrons); Q Café, Inc., 2012 WL 215282, at *5 (awarding additional damages in the amount of five times the statutory base award, citing the location of the broadcast in an urban area and the importance of deterring future violations); Beck, 2013 WL 5592333, at *3 (awarding additional damages in the amount of three times the base because defendant did not charge a cover charge, only thirty patrons viewed the event, and defendant was not a repeat offender); Al-Waha Enters., 219 F. Supp. 2d at 777 (awarding triple damages for a willful violation); Kingvision Pay-Per-View, Ltd. v. Scott E's Pub, Inc., 146 F. Supp. 2d 955, 960 (E.D. Wis. 2001) (awarding five times the base statutory amount because defendant advertised the event, charged a cover, and showed the event on five television monitors). Here, Plaintiff provides evidence of the auditing visit during which Defendant's violation was observed. Pl.'s Ex. A-2, App. 21. The evidence demonstrates that Defendant's establishment displayed the Event on only one screen, and that approximately twenty-three patrons were in attendance. Id. As previously mentioned, Defendant did not charge these patrons a cover. Id. Based on the damages awarded by other courts faced with similar circumstances, the evidence currently before the Court, and the need to deter future violations, the Court finds that additional damages equal to three times the base statutory damages is reasonable. See Beck, 2013 WL 5592333, at *3 (using a multiple of three where defendant did not charge a cover and exhibited the event to approximately thirty patrons). Thus, the Court GRANTS Plaintiff's request for additional damages and awards Plaintiff the sum of $15,000.

3. Attorneys' Fees and Costs

Under the FCA, the Court is required to order the recovery of full costs, including attorneys' fees, to an aggrieved party who prevails. 47 U.S.C. § 605(e)(3)(B)(iii). Plaintiff seeks a one-third contingent fee or, alternatively, attorneys' fees in the amount of $1,000, as well as additional attorneys' fees in the event Defendant files a post-judgment motion or appeals. Pl.'s Mot. 9; Pl.'s Ex. B, Affidavit of David M. Diaz ("Diaz Aff."), App. 29–34. Plaintiff presents the affidavit of its counsel, David M. Diaz, in which he estimates his fee to be $1,000 for his time and work in this case. Pl.'s Ex. B, Diaz Aff., App. 31–32. This sum is based on a rate of $250 per hour and approximately 4 hours of work. Id. Given this estimate as well as the evidence and circumstances of the case, the Court finds Plaintiff's request for $1,000 in attorneys' fees to be more reasonable than a one-third contingency fee.

The Fifth Circuit has described the procedure and standard for determining attorneys' fees as follows:

The determination of a fees award is a two-step process. First the court calculates the “lodestar” which is equal to the number of hours reasonably expended multiplied by the prevailing hourly rate in the community for similar work. The court should exclude all time that is excessive, duplicative, or inadequately documented. Once the lodestar amount is calculated, the court can adjust it based on the twelve factors set forth in Johnson v. Georgia Highway Express, Inc., 488 F.2d 714, 717–19 (5th Cir. 1974).

Smith v. Acevedo, 478 F. App'x 116, 124 (5th Cir. 2012) (quoting Jimenez v. Wood Cnty, 621 F.3d 372, 379–80 (5th Cir. 2010)). The Johnson factors are (1) time and labor required for the litigation; (2) novelty and difficulty of the questions presented; (3) skill requisite to perform the legal services properly; (4) preclusion of other employment; (5) customary fee; (6) whether the fee is fixed or contingent; (7) limitations imposed by the client or circumstances; (8) amount involved and the result obtained; (9) experience, reputation, and ability of the attorneys; (10) “undesirability” of the case; (11) nature and length of the professional relationship with the client; and (12) awards in similar cases. 488 F.2d at 717–19.

Although Plaintiff has not offered invoices or other evidence supporting the number of hours its attorney worked on this case, the Court accepts as reasonable Mr. Diaz's estimate of his time and rates given his experience with anti-piracy cases as well as the authorities he provides. Pl.'s Exs. B, Diaz Aff., App. App. 32–33; B-2, Texas Lawyer 2013 Salary and Billing Survey. Accordingly, the Court makes no adjustment to these figures and GRANTS Plaintiff's request for $1,000 in attorneys' fees.<sup>2</sup>

Though Plaintiff is entitled to recover costs pursuant to this action, it has neglected to specify the amount of costs it seeks to recover. Moreover, Plaintiff does not provide any evidence establishing the costs it has incurred. As the Court is unable to determine the sum of the costs sought or the manner in which such a sum can be computed, it DENIES Plaintiff's request for costs at this time. Plaintiff may, however, provide supplementary briefing and evidence establishing the amount of costs it seeks.

4. Permanent Injunction

Lastly, Plaintiff requests a permanent injunction against Defendant to prevent her "from ever intercepting or exhibiting an unauthorized program in violation of the [FCA]." Pl.'s Mot. 10. Under the FCA, a court may grant a final injunction "on such terms as it may deem reasonable to prevent or restrain violations" of the Act. 47 U.S.C. § 605(e)(3)(B)(i). However, Plaintiff provides no explanation supporting its request for such relief. Additionally, the Court finds such an injunction is unnecessary to the extent it is merely intended to prevent Defendant from violating the FCA. The

<sup>2</sup> In its proposed order, Plaintiff also includes several conditional grants of attorneys' fees for potential post-judgment and appellate work. Doc. 7-2, Final Default J. 2. Though Plaintiff does not expound upon this request in its Motion, the affidavit of its counsel, David Diaz, lists various requests for fees that are contingent upon the occurrence of post-judgment events. Pl.'s Ex. B, Diaz. Aff., App. 33–34. For example, Plaintiff seeks a conditional award of $10,000 to be granted should Defendant file a "post-judgment, pre-appeal motion," such as a motion to vacate. Id. Because this Court has granted reasonable attorneys' fees for the work actually performed, and because Plaintiff has presented no argument or evidence establishing the reasonableness of these additional contingent fees, the Court denies this request.

Court therefore DENIES Plaintiff's request for a permanent injunction.

IV.

CONCLUSION

For the reasons discussed above, the Court GRANTS in part and DENIES in part Plaintiff's Motion for Final Default Judgment (doc. 7). In particular, the Court:

- GRANTS Plaintiff's requests for statutory damages in the amount of $5,000 and for additional damages in the amount of $15,000, for a total award of $20,000;
- GRANTS Plaintiff's request for attorneys' fees in the amount of $1,000;
- DENIES Plaintiff's request for costs of court, pending supplementation of the record;
- GRANTS Plaintiff's request for post-judgment interest at the rate of 0.25% on all amounts awarded herein; and
- DENIES Plaintiff's request for a permanent injunction.

If Plaintiff is able to provide supplementary briefing and evidence in support of its request for court costs, it is ORDERED to do so by April 20, 2015.

SO ORDERED.
